Project Under Design: McCulloch Road and North Tanner Road Intersection Improvements

Design Process

Final design activities are underway to prepare construction plans for the planned intersection improvements at McCulloch Road and North Tanner Road. The plans will include details for roadway and drainage improvements, the addition of left turn lanes, traffic signals, roadway signing and pavement markings. Final design will also include plans for maintaining traffic flow and access to adjacent properties during construction.

The intersection of McCulloch Road and North Tanner Road is within the jurisdiction of the St. Johns River Water Management District (SJRWMD). The construction of the stormwater treatment system will require permitting through the SJRWMD and must comply with Orange County regulations. The permit requirements will address the design and construction of the roadway and treatment systems.

Current Status and Project Schedule

The design phase of this project is underway. Field surveys have been completed and the design effort is in the plans preparation phase. In some areas, temporary construction easements or slope easements may be needed to blend the proposed improvements with the existing conditions. The design phase of the project is scheduled to be completed by February, 2009. The construction phase will follow in 2009.
